To Whom It May Concern,

This is to certify that Sanjana K R Prasad was a part of our organisation from 05/08/2022 to 31/03/2023. She held the position of Technology & Research Intern in the Technology Department at our company XENVIS - an Augmented Reality (AR) and Virtual Reality (VR) Solutions company. She also took on specific tasks in the Business Development Department whenever it was required.

Following were the roles and duties that were assigned to her during the aforementioned period :

- Working with the senior management team to formulate product and client strategies
- Working closely with the Product Engineering team throughout the product design and implementation process
- Assisting various teams with tasks such as research, data capturing and analysis, product demonstrations and social media posts
- AR/VR technology analysis, reporting and co-authoring technology blogs

During her time at XENVIS, Sanjana has shown great dedication and punctuality and we found her to be honest, hardworking and responsible. I approve of her character as an understanding and helpful team member.

Her contribution towards building an AR Measurement application using the Unity platform stood out in particular. The work included using Computer Vision for image recognition, plane detection, distance and angle calculation in 3D. Sanjana took the lead on this project and the output was well appreciated by customers and senior members within our team.

Her thorough research and meticulous execution were a valuable addition to a project that involved building our proprietary image processing software.

She also assisted the Product Engineering team in implementing a data analytics tool for financials investments based on specific customer requirements.

As a dependable and passionate individual, she will be a good addition to any organisation. We wish her all the best for her future.

Sincerely,

Zeba Khan
